MORE RIOTING IN CLEVELAND Wonien Take a Hand In Stoning Trolley Cars.

CLEVELAND, June 20.-Up to clock yesterday afternoon it promised to be the most uneventful day in the big other serious riot brake out in an entirely sent to the hospital in consequence. The company began yesterday the oper ation of two new lines-those on Scovill and Central avenues. The cars were protected by policemen, and until the afternoon no trouble occurred. Just be fore 4 o'clock two of the Scovill cars approached the crossing of the Pennsylva-nia railroad. There they were met by a mob of more than 2,000 men and women One of the cars was taken across the railroad safely, but the other was held up by the mob. A perfect shower of paving bricks and stones fell about the car and crashed against the vestibule at the front end, behind which the motorman was concealed. Women threw bricks and handed them to the men who were in the front of the crowd. The windows of the car had been lowered, and the bricks crashed against the seats and fell upon the floor of the car. The conductor escaped injury, but the motorman, A. J. McGrew of St. Louis, was struck on the head with a brick and rendered unconscious. He was taken to a hospital. The patrolman on the cur was also hit with a brick, but was not seriously hurt. A call was made for the July Osts., police, but when a detachment of officers July Pork. arrived the mob had dispersed, and no arrests were made.

At the meeting of the council last even ing there was a scene of great disorder. The gallery and lobby of the chamber were packed by a large crowd, and ever speaker who was inclined to give the railroad company a fair show was hissed. This continued until Mayor Farley made a speech, in which he declared that he did not propose to submit to intimidastated if the strike was declared off. The demand for the absolute recognition of the union appears to have been abandoned. President Everett says he cannot agree to take back all the men, for some of them will never be reinstated.

founted Russian Cussacks Fish Through the Ice of Swift Rivers,

To fish while mounted on the back of horse probably would be beyond the capacity of gentle Izaak Walton of de lightful memory, yet that is the way sturgeon is captured in the frozen rivers of the Ural mountains. Russian Cossacks fish in large bands, says a foreign paper. They gallop along until they reach the point in the rivers where the current has its swiftest flight There they dismount and cut into the ice until they have cleared a small pool of water which extends across the rapid current almost from one bank of the river to the other. A net is then sunk to the bottom of the stream and stretched across it at the open pool so that not a single fish can swim beyond its meshes. Then the horses are mounted and the Cossacks turn back and ride along the edge of the river for about four or five miles. Then the band wheels about and gallops rapidly along the ice-covered stream, making a pieture that would delight a Schreyer or a by the beating of the horses' hoofs on into the net that waits their capture.

Uning Manure as Made. If a farmer wants to get the most out of his manure supply with the least work, the best plan we know of is to haul out manure as it is made, directly from the stable to the field. It may g onto the thin points in the wheat field or on the sod land that is to be turned for corn next spring. There is very little wasted by this practice, and there is only one handling of the manure. Sometimes when the manure is spread on frozen ground, and heavy rains come before it is thawed out, there is some waste by surface water, but with due care in this matter, by spreading manure in level places in the field while frost is in the ground, there can't be much waste.-W.
